Better Laundry Work?

Why not have your collars and cuffs ironed on our new steam collar ironer? We installed one of the first in the state. Your collars will be whiter, with a full finish and will not break or crack. The old style gas heated ironers will make your collars yellow and brittle. We are running a union laundry and working union hours. No night work.

There is something about the life of a circus performer that fascinates old and young. There is always something new and strange about it, and for that reason the picture, "The Clown's Last Moment," at the Bijou theatre to-day, will be of special interest. The atmosphere of the tented ring is true, and the drama is well played. "Ruins of a Haunted Castle" is a picture full of curiosity, and that is why it will entertain most people for all of us are curious. The song is new and Welsh sings it well.

When Gas Was Really Dear.

"Talking of eighty-cent gas with bills no lower than they were with dollar gas," said an old New Yorker, "whenever I feel like lynching a gas official I go to my desk at home and take out several old bits of paper for perusal. They came down to me from my grandfather and are receipted gas bills.

"There is a receipt, for example, dated in 1827, which shows the price of gas in New York then was $1 per hundred cubic feet, or $10 per thousand, as against 80 cents today. In 1838 and 1842 it was 70 cents per hundred, or $7 per thousand. Not only that, but rental was charged for the meter and for the use of gas fixtures as well.

"Of course these facts don't tend to reduce my present bill at all, but don't you know how comforting it is to feel that others have been so much worse off than you are?"—New York Globe.

New Metal For Watchmaking.

The alloy called "Invar," consisting of steel mixed with about 35 per cent of nickel, which is practically invariable in volume with ordinary changes of temperature, was adopted a year or two ago by Swiss watchmakers for making balances in the majority of their best timepieces. The compensation for temperature thus obtained is superior to any hitherto known. For many years watchmakers struggled with an outstanding trouble in the best compensated chronometers, due principally to the nonlinear variation of the elasticity of the steel of the hairspring. By the use of the "Invar" this error, it is stated, may be practically eliminated.—London Mail.

The Care of Calves.

When calves crave wood or other unnatural substances it is an indication of an excessive acid condition of the digestive organs. They need an anti-acid, the same as when cows eat bones to neutralize an acid condition. Give them a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in milk twice daily.—Farm Journal.
